To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing on behalf of Diligent Corporation (“Diligent”) to inform you that Diligent recently experienced a cybersecurity event potentially impacting the personal information of Maryland residents.

On or around May 21, 2022, an unauthorized actor accessed a network supporting Steele Compliance (acquired by Diligent in February 2021). Diligent’s security team learned about the event on May 23, 2022, and promptly responded. By the end of the following day, May 24, 2022, Diligent had contained the event. As of the date of this letter, we have not seen any indication that the event impacted the Diligent production environment.

Upon learning that the Steele Compliance network was accessed by an unauthorized actor, Diligent promptly took measures to disable non-essential access to the network and contain the event. Diligent also notified law enforcement of the event and is cooperating with their investigation. Work to investigate the event to identify what information was impacted remains ongoing. As of the date of this letter, approximately six Maryland residents have been identified as potentially impacted. The types of personal information that may have been accessed include names, email addresses, mailing addresses, and Social Security numbers.

The cause of the event has not been determined. To reduce the risk of similar events happening in the future, Diligent is working to further enhance its security controls, including by migrating additional workloads and data to the Diligent-managed environment.

Diligent plans to provide notice by mail to potentially affected Maryland residents, and a sample copy of such notice is attached. In addition to providing information regarding credit reporting agencies, government resources, security freezes, and fraud alerts, Diligent is offering credit monitoring services for two years through Experian, at no cost to the potentially affected individuals.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or require additional information.

Sincerely,

Attachment 2: Additional Information

You should be cautious about using email to provide sensitive personal information, whether sending it yourself or in response to email requests. You should also be cautious when opening attachments and clicking on links in emails. Scammers sometimes use fraudulent emails or other communications to deploy malicious software on your devices or to trick you into sharing valuable personal information, such as account numbers, Social Security numbers, or usernames and passwords. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has provided guidance at <https://consumer.ftc.gov/articles/how-recognize-and-avoid-phishing-scams>.

You should review your financial statements and accounts for signs of suspicious transactions and activities. If you find any indication of unauthorized accounts or transactions, you should report the possible threat to local law enforcement, your State's Attorney General's office, or the FTC. You will find contact information for some of those entities below. If you discover unauthorized charges, promptly inform the relevant payment card companies and financial institutions.

Fraud Alert Information

Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer's credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer's identity before extending new credit. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the agencies listed below. The agency you contact will then contact the other two credit agencies.

Whether or not you enroll in the credit monitoring product offered, you also have the right to place an initial fraud alert on your file at no cost. An initial fraud alert lasts one (1) year and is placed on a consumer's credit file. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven (7) years. Fraud alert messages notify potential credit grantors to verify your identification before extending credit in your name in case someone is using your information without your consent. A fraud alert can make it more difficult for someone to get credit in your name; however, please be aware that it also may delay your ability to obtain credit.

Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the agencies listed below. The agency you contact will then contact the other two credit agencies. You may also contact any of the consumer reporting agencies or the FTC for more information regarding fraud alerts. The contact information for the three nationwide credit reporting agencies is:

Equifax	Experian	TransUnion
P.O. Box 105788	P.O. Box 9554	P.O. Box 2000

Free Credit Report Information

You have rights under the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act. These include, among others, the right to know what is in your credit file; the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information; and the right to ask for a credit score. Under federal law, you are also entitled to one free credit report once every 12 months from each of the above three major nationwide credit reporting companies. Call 1-877-322-8228 or make a request online at www.annualcreditreport.com.

Even if you do not find any suspicious activity on your initial credit reports, we recommend that you check your account statements and credit reports periodically. You should remain vigilant for incidents of fraud and identity theft. Victim information sometimes is held for use or shared among a group of thieves at different times. Checking your credit reports periodically can help you spot problems and address them quickly.

If you find suspicious activity on your credit reports or have reason to believe your information is being misused, call your local law enforcement agency or state attorney general and file a police report. Get a copy of the report; many creditors want the information it contains to alleviate you of the fraudulent debts. You also should file a complaint with the FTC using the contact information below. Your complaint will be added to the FTC's Consumer Sentinel database, where it will be accessible to law enforcement for their investigations.

You may also contact the FTC at the contact information below to learn more about identity theft and the steps you can take to protect yourself and prevent such activity. If you are a resident of the District of Columbia, Iowa, Maryland, New York, or Oregon, you can also reach out to your respective state's Attorney General's office at the contact information below.
