To Whom it May Concern,

First Unum Life Insurance Company ("First Unum") is writing to inform you about a security incident experienced by a downstream vendor that may have impacted the personal information of one (1) Maryland resident.

On July 13, 2023, First Unum learned that a vendor of a third-party administrator used by one of First Unum's reinsurers was impacted by the critical vulnerability in the MOVEit Transfer application that Progress Software Corporation announced on May 31, 2023.

Specifically, our reinsurer advised that:

- its third-party administrator, NTT Data (NTT), used an external vendor, Pension Benefits Information, LLC (PBI), to perform certain services for the benefit of our policyholders;
- between May 29, 2023, and May 30, 2023, an unauthorized third party exploited the vulnerability in the MOVEit application that PBI used, and may have acquired some of our policyholder information;
- the types of information that may have been impacted include first and last name, gender, Social Security number, date of birth, policy number, and city, state, and zip code;
- PBI completed recommended patching and remediation steps to secure its systems; and
- PBI has informed law enforcement of the incident.

Our reinsurer plans on providing notice to the impacted Maryland resident on or around July 14, 2023, and extending an offer of free credit monitoring and identity protection services for a period of two years through Kroll.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or require additional information.

Sincerely,

NOTICE OF <Variable Text Field 1>

Dear [insert First name]:

<Insert company name> is writing to let you know about a third-party software vulnerability that impacted some of your information. Although we have no indication of identity theft or fraud in relation to this event, we are providing you with information about the event, the response, and additional measures that can be taken to help protect your information.

What Happened? One of our third party's downstream vendors used Progress Software. Progress Software has widely disclosed that cyber criminals actively exploited a vulnerability in its MOVEit Transfer application. Thousands of organizations use MOVEit to support secure file transfers; therefore, this incident has affected many companies around the world, including the third party vendor NTT DATA (NTT).

NTT has advised that, between May 29 and 30 of this year, an unauthorized third party exploited the vulnerability in the MOVEit application, which NTT's external vendor Pension Benefits Information, LLC ("PBI") uses, and may have acquired some of our policyholder information. For context, NTT shares policyholder data with PBI to perform regulatory compliance and operational support services for the benefit of our policyholders.

NTT has explained that PBI completed the recommended patching and remediation steps to secure its systems and has informed law enforcement of the incident. On June 30, 2023, our third party learned of the incident and a review of the data provided by NTT determined that some of our policyholder information was involved.

What Information Was Involved? <Variable Text Field 3> Based on information received, we believe your information may have been impacted, including:

- First and Last Name;
- Gender;
- Social security number;

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
