Re: Notice of Data Security Incident of Progress Software as Vendor to Fidelity National Information Services, Inc.

Dear Office of the Attorney General:

This Firm represents Fidelity National Information Services, Inc. ("FIS"). We are writing to notify your office on behalf of FIS and its client, AAA - Auto Club Trust ("ACT"), regarding the nature and circumstances of a recent data security incident involving the file transfer software tool MOVEit Transfer provided by third-party vendor Progress Software. FIS uses MOVEit Transfer to transfer digital files.

As you likely know, on May 31, 2023, Progress Software announced a previously unknown critical zero-day vulnerability in MOVEit Transfer and recommended users disable the software until it could be patched due to a potential risk of data exposure. FIS immediately ceased using MOVEit Transfer and disabled it in its system. Later in the evening on May 31 and in the early morning of June 1, 2023, Progress Software released patches to remedy the vulnerability, which FIS successfully deployed the same day on all instances of the MOVEit Transfer applications within its environment. In parallel to the patching activity, FIS immediately launched an investigation with the assistance of cyber experts to assess the scope of the potential exploitation of the vulnerability and notified law enforcement. The investigation revealed that an unauthorized third party acquired certain of ACT's files that were transferred from ACT to FIS through MOVEit Transfer that contained personal information of certain ACT customers.

During the investigation, FIS and ACT have determined that the impacted files included names, contact information (e.g., email and postal addresses), dates of birth, citizenship status, Social Security numbers, driver's license numbers, passport numbers, ACT bank account numbers, certain account information (e.g., account type, status and balance) and transaction information (e.g., transaction amounts) of certain ACT customers in Maryland. The types of affected personal information varied by individual. ACT is sending notifications by mail to the affected individuals to explain what happened, what information was involved, what they and FIS have done, and how affected individuals can contact ACT with questions. ACT's affected customers are being offered two years of credit monitoring.

FIS carefully evaluates the cybersecurity posture of third-party file transfer tools, and FIS will continue this effort. FIS is also taking steps to further secure its use of all third-party transfer tools.

Further information about what ACT has done and recommends to affected individuals can be found in the enclosed notification that ACT is sending to approximately 252 Maryland residents via mail on October 6, 2023.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

NOTICE OF DATA BREACH

Dear Customer:

We were informed by one of our third-party service providers that its systems were affected by a cybersecurity incident associated with a software tool called "MOVEit." MOVEit is a software product used by many organizations, including our service provider, to transfer digital files. We are writing to let you know that, in or around August 10, 2023, we learned that this issue affected your personal information maintained by our service provider on our behalf.

What Happened?

Progress Software, the owner of MOVEit, recently announced a previously unknown security vulnerability that could allow unauthorized acquisition of files on MOVEit systems. We were subsequently informed by our service provider that, between May 29, 2023 and May 30, 2023, an unauthorized party acquired certain records from our service provider's MOVEit system by exploiting this vulnerability. According to our service provider, some of these affected records included Auto Club Trust, FSB files. Importantly, this issue did not impact Auto Club Trust, FSB's own networks or systems.

What Information Was Involved?

After learning of the issue, we quickly launched an investigation to determine its nature and scope, including identifying the types of personal information that may have been included in the affected files. You are receiving this notice because we have determined that your records are among those that were affected. The affected personal information included names, contact information (e.g., email and postal addresses), dates of birth, Social Security numbers, driver's license numbers, and passport numbers. The types of affected personal information varied by individual.

What We Are Doing

We have arranged to offer an identity monitoring and credit education service to affected individuals for two years at no cost to you. The attached Reference Guide provides information on registration and recommendations by the U.S. Federal Trade Commission on the protection of personal information.

What You Can Do

We regret that this issue may affect you. We take our obligation to safeguard personal information very seriously and are alerting you about this issue with our service provider so you can take steps to help protect yourself. Order Your Free Credit Report. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com, call toll-free at 1-877-322-8228, or complete the Annual Credit Report Request Form on the U.S. Federal Trade Commission's ("FTC's") website at www.consumer.ftc.gov and mail it to Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348-5281. The three nationwide consumer reporting agencies provide free annual credit reports only through the website, toll-free number or request form.

When you receive your credit report, review it carefully. Look for accounts you did not open. Look in the "inquiries" section for names of creditors from whom you haven't requested credit. Some companies bill under names other than their store or commercial names. The consumer reporting agency will be able to tell you when that is the case. Look in the "personal information" section for any inaccuracies in your information (such as home address and Social Security number). If you see anything you do not understand, call the consumer reporting agency at the telephone number on the report. Errors in this information may be a warning sign of possible identity theft. You should notify the consumer reporting agencies of any inaccuracies in your report, whether due to error or fraud, as soon as possible so the information can be investigated and, if found to be in error, corrected. If there are accounts or charges you did not authorize, immediately notify the appropriate consumer reporting agency by telephone and in writing. Consumer reporting agency staff will review your report with you. If the information cannot be explained, then you will need to call the creditors involved. Information that cannot be explained also should be reported to your local police or sheriff's office because it may signal criminal activity.

Report Incidents. If you detect any unauthorized transactions in your financial account, promptly notify us or your other relevant financial institution or payment card company. If you detect any incident of identity theft or fraud, promptly report the incident to law enforcement, the FTC and your state Attorney General. If you believe your identity has been stolen, the FTC recommends that you take these steps:

- Close the accounts that you have confirmed or believe have been tampered with or opened fraudulently. For streamlined checklists and sample letters to help guide you through the recovery process, please visit <https://www.identitytheft.gov/>.
- File a local police report. Obtain a copy of the police report and submit it to your creditors and any others that may require proof of the identity theft crime.

You can contact the FTC to learn more about how to protect yourself from becoming a victim of identity theft and how to repair identity theft:

Consider Placing a Fraud Alert on Your Credit File. To protect yourself from possible identity theft, consider placing a fraud alert on your credit file. A fraud alert helps protect you against the possibility of an identity thief opening new credit accounts in your name. When a merchant checks the credit history of someone applying for credit, the merchant gets a notice that the applicant may be the victim of identity theft. The alert notifies the merchant to take steps to verify the identity of the applicant. You can place a fraud alert on your credit report by calling any one of the toll-free numbers provided below. You will reach an automated telephone system that allows you to flag your file with a fraud alert at all three consumer reporting agencies. For more information on fraud alerts, you also may contact the FTC as described above.

Consider Placing a Security Freeze on Your Credit File. You may wish to place a "security freeze" (also known as a "credit freeze") on your credit file. A security freeze is designed to prevent potential creditors from accessing your credit file at the consumer reporting agencies without your consent. Unlike a fraud alert, you must place a security freeze on your credit file at each consumer reporting agency individually. There is no charge to place or lift a security freeze. For more information on security freezes, you may contact the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies or the FTC as described above. As the instructions for establishing a security freeze differ from state to state, please contact the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies to find out more information.

The consumer reporting agencies may require proper identification prior to honoring your request. For example, you may be asked to provide:

- Your full name with middle initial and generation (such as Jr., Sr., II, III)
- Your Social Security number
- Your date of birth
- Addresses where you have lived over the past five years
- A legible copy of a government-issued identification card (such as a state driver's license or military ID card)
- Proof of your current residential address (such as a current utility bill or account statement) bank

For Massachusetts Residents. You have the right to obtain a police report and request a security freeze as described above. The consumer reporting agencies may require that you provide certain personal information (such as your name, Social Security number, date of birth, and address) and proper identification (such as a copy of a government-issued ID card and a bill or statement) prior to honoring your request to place a security freeze on your account.

Order Your Free Credit Report. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com, call toll-free at 1-877-322-8228, or complete the Annual Credit Report Request Form on the U.S. Federal Trade Commission's ("FTC's") website at www.consumer.ftc.gov and mail it to Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348-5281. The three nationwide consumer reporting agencies provide free annual credit reports only through the website, toll-free number or request form.

When you receive your credit report, review it carefully. Look for accounts you did not open. Look in the "inquiries" section for names of creditors from whom you haven't requested credit. Some companies bill under names other than their store or commercial names. The consumer reporting agency will be able to tell you when that is the case. Look in the "personal information" section for any inaccuracies in your information (such as home address and Social Security number). If you see anything you do not understand, call the consumer reporting agency at the telephone number on the report. Errors in this information may be a warning sign of possible identity theft. You should notify the consumer reporting agencies of any inaccuracies in your report, whether due to error or fraud, as soon as possible so the information can be investigated and, if found to be in error, corrected. If there are accounts or charges you did not authorize, immediately notify the appropriate consumer reporting agency by telephone and in writing. Consumer reporting agency staff will review your report with you. If the information cannot be explained, then you will need to call the creditors involved. Information that cannot be explained also should be reported to your local police or sheriff's office because it may signal criminal activity.

Report Incidents. If you detect any unauthorized transactions in your financial account, promptly notify us or your other relevant financial institution or payment card company. If you detect any incident of identity theft or fraud, promptly report the incident to law enforcement, the FTC and your state Attorney General. If you believe your identity has been stolen, the FTC recommends that you take these steps:

- Close the accounts that you have confirmed or believe have been tampered with or opened fraudulently. For streamlined checklists and sample letters to help guide you through the recovery process, please visit <https://www.identitytheft.gov/>.
- File a local police report. Obtain a copy of the police report and submit it to your creditors and any others that may require proof of the identity theft crime.

You can contact the FTC to learn more about how to protect yourself from becoming a victim of identity theft and how to repair identity theft:

Consider Placing a Fraud Alert on Your Credit File. To protect yourself from possible identity theft, consider placing a fraud alert on your credit file. A fraud alert helps protect you against the possibility of an identity thief opening new credit accounts in your name. When a merchant checks the credit history of someone applying for credit, the merchant gets a notice that the applicant may be the victim of identity theft. The alert notifies the merchant to take steps to verify the identity of the applicant. You can place a fraud alert on your credit report by calling any one of the toll-free numbers provided below. You will reach an automated telephone system that allows you to flag your file with a fraud alert at all three consumer reporting agencies. For more information on fraud alerts, you also may contact the FTC as described above.

Consider Placing a Security Freeze on Your Credit File. You may wish to place a “security freeze” (also known as a “credit freeze”) on your credit file. A security freeze is designed to prevent potential creditors from accessing your credit file at the consumer reporting agencies without your consent. Unlike a fraud alert, you must place a security freeze on your credit file at each consumer reporting agency individually. There is no charge to place or lift a security freeze. For more information on security freezes, you may contact the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies or the FTC as described above. As the instructions for establishing a security freeze differ from state to state, please contact the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies to find out more information.

The consumer reporting agencies may require proper identification prior to honoring your request. For example, you may be asked to provide:

- Your full name with middle initial and generation (such as Jr., Sr., II, III)
- Your Social Security number
- Your date of birth
- Addresses where you have lived over the past five years
- A legible copy of a government-issued identification card (such as a state driver’s license or military ID card)
- Proof of your current residential address (such as a current utility bill or account statement) bank
